Eight Indictments Found at Session of Lee Grand Jury

Jurors May Be Recalled in Two Weeks to Consider New Cases

Eight indictments, listing charges ranging from forgery to child abandonment, were returned by the April grand jury late yesterday afternoon, and the six defendants involved will be arraigned in Lee county Circuit court before Judge George C. Dixon Thursday at 10 a. m.

Bernice McCarragher, 25, Sublette, was named in two indictments of forgery. She is alleged to have forged two checks in Sublette totalling $140, one in December, 1945, and another earlier this month.

Two true bills were also returned naming Orville Kimball, 50, Hamilton, N. Y., who is charged with passing two checks at two stores here recently under the name of Bert R. Kane.

May Be Recalled

Benjamin E. Toland, 40, who returned here from Las Vegas, Nev., late last week and voluntarily gave himself up, was named in an indictment charging child abandonment. Mrs. Toland was granted a divorce here last week. He had previously started divorce proceedings in Nevada.

True bills were also returned against Robert Fogelsong, 16, Amboy, charged with burglary and larceny after he allegedly broke into an Amboy business house; Betty Lance, 19-year-old Dixon girl, who is charged with taking a diamond ring from the home of Mrs. W. H. Seaman, 920 Ninth street; and Leroy Walker, charged with the possession of unsealed liquor in his automobile.

The grand jury was dismissed following the report, and probably will be recalled within two weeks to consider additional information which is now being prepared by authorities.

Michigan Fruit Growers Warned

Chicago, April 9.—(AP)—The Chicago weather bureau today warned lower Michigan fruit growers of below freezing temperatures tonight which might damage cherries and peaches in that section.

Forecasters said clear weather was indicated for lower Michigan, with the mercury dropping to 26 or 28.

A zone of high barometric pressure gave the midwest chilly north to northeasterly winds today, although the weather was mostly fair. There were some snow flurries in the northern Great Lakes region.

Last night or early today frost spread over portions of Illinois, as far south as Springfield. Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan. Showers and thunderstorms in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas and Nebraska were expected to move northeastward, reaching the Chicago area Thursday.

Prominent Chinese Communists Missing

Chungking, April 9—(AP)—Communist headquarters reported today that a U .S. Army transport plane carrying Gen. Yeh Ting, former commander of the communist new Fourth Army and other party leaders to Yenan is missing.

The plane left Chungking yesterday for Yenan, communist headquarters, with 14 passengers.

Names of the missing plane's crew were not announced Search planes found no trace of the missing transport.

Yeh was returning to Yenan after his recent release from five years imprisonment in a government concentration camp.

Light Voting Marks First Primary Poll in State Since War

(By The Associated Press)

Generally light voting was apparent today in early checks by Illinois primary officials, although the weatherman did his best for the voters. It was cool but sunny and with no indication of rain throughout the state.

A check in one random precinct in each of Chicago's 50 wards at 8:30 a. m. showed an average of 43 Democratic ballots and 17 Republican which if projected would mean 173,591 Democratic and 69,629 Republican votes at that hour in all 4,037 precincts.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki predicted, after the 8:30 a. m. check, a total vote of 737,660 in Cook county, or 531.773 Democratic and 205,887 Republican votes.

Party leaders expected about 1,500,000 voters, or about 30 per cent of those registered, would cast ballots before polls closed at 5 p. m. in the state's 9,038 precincts.

Drab Campaign

A drab statewide campaign and lack of contests in many races indicated a light vote except where lively local rights were settled.

Because of prime interest in many county office nominations, tabulation of statewide office balloting was expected to be late in developing tonight. Light voting, however, would help speed vote counting.

Statewide nominees named for the November 5 general election were for state treasurer, superintendent of public instruction, and congressman-at-large. The Democratic slate was without formal opposition, and the Republican organization encountered opponents for only two of their three favorites.

Voters also nominated party choices for congress in the 25 districts; for 26 state senators in 26 odd-numbered senatorial districts and one state senator from the 20th district to fill a vacancy; and for all 153 Illinois house seats —three to be elected in November from each of the 51 senatorial districts.

Each party also named 25 state

Hot Cash

Decatur, Ill. —(AP)—After a fire destroyed C. T. Durban's house he poked around the ruins and found two pieces of iron pipe which had been part of his cash box and which had contained $2,400 in currency.

He took the pipes to a Decatur bank and some charred material in the pipes was sent to the federal treasury with the proper claim filed.

Treasury experts identified the charred bills and have authorized the bank to credit $2,400 to Durbin's account.

World Today Recalls Struggle Which Ended in Fall of Bataan

Bataan Peninsula, April 9—(AP)—A small car flying a white flag carried American officers to the Japanese lines four years ago today to surrender this fog-hrouded peninsula—where General MacArthur's stand with outnumbered, outgunned forces upset the whole timetable of Japanese conquest.

To thousands of Filipinos huddling fearfully by forbidden radaios, and to the rest of the world, came these words on April 9, 1942.

". . . With heads bloody but unbowed, they have yielded to superior force and numbers . . . The world will long remember the epic struggle that Filipino and American forces put up in the jungle fastnesses and along the rugged coast of Bataan.

"For what sustained them . . . was a force more than physical. It was the force of unconquerable faith.

"Bataan has fallen, but the spirit that made it stand—a beacon to all the liberty-loving people of the world—cannot fail."

The words came from "The Voice of Freedom," the radio on still-embattled Corregidor. They were written by Capt. Salvador P. Lopez, former executive officer on Gen. Jonathan Wainwright's staff.

Lt. Col. L. V. Greene, said that the best information showed 1.600 American soldiers and 13.000 Filipinos were killed in the withdrawal to Bataan and in holding action there. Six hundred Americans and 5,000 Filipinos were killed in the massacre which immediately followed the fall of Bataan. An additional 600 Americans and 11,000 Filipinos died on the death march.

After the defeated troops had reached Cabanatuan prison camp an estimated 30,000 Filipinos and 2,000 Americans died, Greene added.

Federal "Spending Psychology" Called Deeply Entrenched

House Committee Cuts Appropriations for Some Departments

Washington, April 9—(AP)—Demanding elimination of what it called a "deeply entrenched xxx spending psychology" among federal officials, the house appropriations committee today recommended deep slashes in state, commerce and justice department funds.

It sent to the house floor a $358,825,758 bill to finance the three departments and the federal judiciary for the fiscal year starting next July 1. The total represents a 13 per cent cut from budget estimates but a $40,510,759 boost over current year funds.

By agencies the money was earmarked. $143,024,000 for commerce; $104,783,408 for state; $95,168,250 for justice, and $15,850,100 for the judiciary.

All but a small part of the increase went to the commerce and state departments, whose foreign work has been augmented by war's end.

Those two departments, too, took the major budget reductions, 18 per cent in the case of the state department and 17 per cent for commerce.

No Money for Intelligence

The committee allowed no funds at all for the estate department's separate intelligence unit; chopped its estimate for expanded cultural relations activities almost in half, and sharply pared commerce department requests for the Census Bureau and the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The committee approved a state department budget almost five times as large as the last pre-war budget after hearing Secretary of State James Byrnes behind closed doors.

Briefly, Byrnes told the committee in that part of his testimony made public, "we are still concerned with the prevention of future wars and with measures which will improve the social and economic well-being of the peoples of the world to the end that the conditions which lead to war will be removed".

Of federal spending generally, the committee had this to say:

"There seems to have developed during the war years what some

Slayer of Four Held in Jail at Des Moines

Des Moines, Ia., April 9—(AP)—William C. Irwin, 41-year-old printer, was held in jail on a first degree murder charge today in connection with the pick-ax slaying yesterday of his mother, his wife and two young sons.

Irwin, arraigned before Municipal Judge Ralph D. Moore in the city jail, did not enter a plea but an innocent plea was entered for him and he was ordered held without bond.

The charge was placed against him by Chief of Detectives Paul Castelline, who said Irwin hacked to death his mother, Mrs. Mary Alice Irwin, 64, as he worked along side her in a garden; his wife, Edith, 38, and his two sons, John 8, and Henry 5.

Castelline quoted Irwin as saying "God had ordered me to kill my family. I had an impulse. I'm crazy. Don't what I done prove it?"

Black Market in Meat Is Rampant

Washington, April 9—(AP)—Representatives of major meat packers asserted today the black market in meat is out of control, the price system in the industry has broken down, and the "only remedy" is removal of price controls.

Wesley Hardenbergh, president of the American Meat Institute, led off the attack on OPA policies before the senate agriculture committee and was backed up by other packers from Illinois, Montana and California.

Senator Connally (D-Tex) asked Hardenbergh whether he thought "the consumers would get a fair shake" if congress removed subsidies and abolished price control in the industry. Hardenbergh said he certainly did.

"This industry's very existence is threatened by the wasteful, scandalous, widespread and flagrant black market which has been made possible by the price control act", Hardenbergh asserted.

Russian Delegates To Attend Today's Session of Council

Stiff Soviet-American Fight Over Iranian Issue Possible

New York, April 9—(AP)—Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian member of the United Nations Security Council, said today that he would attend today's session.

Russia thus ended the boycott which began March 27 when Gromyko walked out on the council's Iranian discussions.

Asked by reporters whether he would attend today's meeting, Gromyko said, "yes, I shall go."

When asked if he planned to bring up the Iranian matter at today's meeting, however, he replied:

"Ask the president of the Security Council. He knows what's on the agenda."

Russia has filed with the council a demand for complete dismissal of the Iranian case.

Barring one possibility, a stiff Soviet-American fight appears likely to result over this issue. Secretary of State Byrnes indicated that the United States is opposed to reopening the Iranian case until May 6, the deadline by which all Soviet troops are supposed to be out of Iran. Some officials said the British hold a similar view.

The possibility was seen that Iran might agree with Russia's demand. Such a development would mean that the two governments most concerned in the controversy considered it a closed book as far as the council goes. That might weaken any argument the United States could make for keeping it open for consideration May 6.

Sugar Refiners to Go Out On Strike

Washington, April 9—(AP)—CIO and AFL unions today called a strike effective at midnight Saturday at seven east coast refineries which process 70 per cent of the nation's cane sugar.

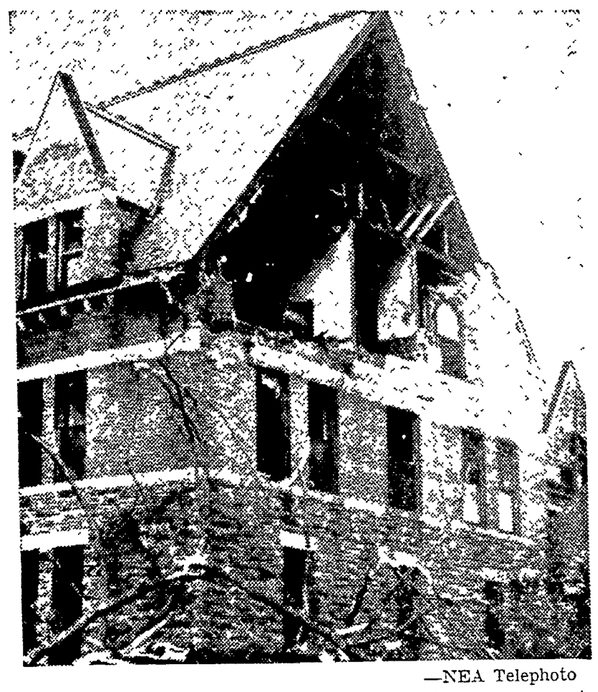

The unions said in a statement they had reached an impasse in negotiations with refining companies. They said the companies had refused to accept as binding recommendations of a fact-finding panel appointed by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach.

The unions, claiming more than 3,000 workers at seven Atlantic coast plants would be involved in the walkout, said they were still willing to arbitrate their wage demands.

The companies have agreed to accept a fact-finding procedure for settlement of wage differences but have declined to commit themselves to acceptance of any fact-finding recommendations.

The union timed their coast-wide strike to start at 10:39 p.m. CST.

U. S. Pressing for Peace in Europe; Hemisphere Unity

Washington, April 9—(AP)—The United States threw its diplomatic weight today behind a double-barreled drive to speed peace for much of Europe and harmony for the Americas.

This, in brief, is the situation:

Europe—Barring unexpected developments, Secretary of State Byrnes, will meet in Paris April 25 with Foreign Ministers Molotov of Russia, Bevin of Britain and Bidault of France in a critical session which may determine when the projected, 21-nation European peace conference can begin.

At stake in turn are final treaties which will permit full restoration of sovereignty to the European countries once allied with nazi Germany—Italy, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and Finland.

Americas—This country, in effect, is extending the olive branch to Col. Juan D. Peron, Argentina's "strong man" and president-elect. The gesture is a bid to end two years of intermittent bickering and restore hemisphere solidarity, backed up by a Pan American defense treaty.

Suggestion Accepted

Byrnes disclosed these new developments at a news conference late yesterday.

He announced that Molotov and Bevin had accepted his suggestion that Big Four fgoreign ministers meet in Paris April 25 in an effort to break the present deadlock over drafts of proposed peace treaties.

(At Paris, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault of France said today that his country had accepted Secretary Byrnes' proposal.)

Then Byrnes issued a statement which said the United States would "welcome" Argentina's participation in the Pan American defense treaty if the Peron government would fulfill its hemisphere commitments, including its pledge to eliminate "axis influences".

Meanwhile, the deputy foreign ministers, who have been working on treaty drafts in London for two months, appeared stalemated on such touchy issues as the Italian-Yugoslavia boundary dispute and disposition of the former Italian colonies.

Those matters apparently will have to be disposed of at the Big Four Paris meeting if they are to be resolved at all.

Roundup of Doings on Nation's Labor Fronts Summarized

Major Disputes Remain Unsettled; Some of News is Brighter

(By The Associated Press)

There was a flurry of activity on the nation's labor front today, but the country's major dispute—the work stoppage in the soft coal mines—persisted. Also continuing to slow the reconversion program were prolonged strikes by more than 100,000 electrical and farm equipment workers.

As the 400,000 AFL soft coal miners remained away from their jobs, new layoffs were reported in steel plants. Meanwhile, as negotiations planned to meet in Washington a top labor official who asked anonymity said he believed the government "will do something this week."

Akron Strike Ends

In addition to the mines, about 408,000 other workers were idle because of labor disputes.

On the credit side of the industrial strife was the agreement by CIO Transport Workers to end an eight-day transit strike in Akron, the averting of a threatened strike of 1.400 AFL Electrical Workers which would have affected power, light and transportation for a million persons in the Cincinnati area, and a labor-management agreement ending a six-months-old strike by 700 CIO workers at the American Tobacco Company in Philadelphia. Wages were the chief issue in each dispute.

The strikers at three American Tobacco plants in Philadelphia were to vote today on ratification of the terms which provided a general wage increase of 12 to 15 cents an hour, maintenance of membership, and dues checkoff. The strike is the longest now in effect in Pennsylvania.

Federal conciliators in Washington continued negotiating sessions in an attempt to end the 11-weeks-old strike by 30,000 CIO workers at International Harvester Company plants.

The 85-day-old strike by 75,000 CIO electrical workers at Westinghouse Electric Corp. plants in a wage dispute appeared no nearer settlement, but some 3,000 salaried employes crossed picket lines at the company's East Pittsburgh plant yesterday in the biggest back-to-work movement since the walkout started.

GO OVER PEACE TERMS

Washington, April 9—(AP) — Representatives of the International Harvester Company and the CIO Farm Equipment Workers' Union today went over the final details of a new contract designed to end a 79-day strike at Harvester plants.

Federal conciliators, in their third week of almost continuous sessions with company and union, told reporters they expected a full settlement later in the day.

Both sides have agreed to an 18-cent hourly increase but have ben at odds over other contract terms. The strike of 30.000 workers at 10 Harvester plants in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and New York has sharply curtailed production of farm tools.

House Group Plugs for Draft Holiday as Deadline Nears

BULLETIN

Washington, April 9—(AP)—The senate military committee decided today to delay until Thursday a decision on the administration's request for a one year extension of the draft beyond May 15.

The house military group also failed to reach agreement at a morning session, but scheduled another for later in the day.

The house group rejected a prohibition of inductions between May 15 and next February 15. It will take up a compromise this afternoon.

Washington, April 9.—(AP)—A draft holiday got an energetic buildup on the house side of the capitol today, but initial senate sentiment seemed to favor continuing selective service without any such experiment.

Both senate and house military committees were striving to reach decisions, today if possible, on what recommendations to make about extending the draft law, now due to expire May 15. The political considerations of an election year made the decisions touchy ones.

Senator Austin (R-Vt.) was optimistic that the senate group would approve his proposal for a straightaway one-year extension with the service of inductees limited to 18 months. This is the program the armed forces have been urging.

Across the capitol, however, influential house military committee members reported that the war department was willing to agree to a four or six months ban on inductions of new eligibles after May 15, provided congress would vote a full year's extension of selective service. The war department did not comment.

Would Be Up to Truman

Under this plan, President Truman would be authorized to order inductions resumed after the four or six months moratorium, if enlistments meanwhile failed to meet Army manpower needs.

To encourage those enlistments, Rep. Vinson (D-Ga) introduced legislation yesterday for a $3,000,000 recruiting campaign. This measure carried provisions for raising the pay of all enlisted personnel with a 100 per cent boost for privates, and for a six-months ban on draft inductions while the effectiveness of the campaign was being tested.

It was after this proposal was offered that Rep. Sparkman (D-Ala) indicated to newsmen he thought the war department would be ready to go along on such a compromise.

Thinks Army Willing

"I believe, in fact I feel sure," he said, "that the army would be willing to accept a one-year extension, with a suspension (of inductions) provision, provided the president was given power to order inductions resumed if enlistments dropped too low."

Despite such house talk, there were strong indications that the senate military group would go down the line for the one-year draft extension with 18 months service.

Senator Austin reported committee proponents of this plan "have lost no votes and probably have gained a few."

He referred to an 8-8 committee deadlock two weeks ago which temporarily blocked a favorable report to permit additional public hearings.

Austin said these hearings had won support.

BURNS FATAL TO YOUTH

Army, Navy Chiefs Not In on Any Pre-Pearl Harbor Talk

Knew Nothing of White House Parley on Eve of Sneak Attack

Washington, April 9—(AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall and Adm. Harold R. Stark said today they knew nothing of any attempts to summon them to the White House for a war conference with the late President Roosevelt on the eve of the Pearl Harbor attack.

Both the former Army Chief of Staff and former Chief of Naval Operations also reiterated before a senate-house committee that they had not seen or been told about a final Japanese diplomatic message until the morning of the attack, Dec. 7, 1941.

If there was a conference that night Stark told a senate-house inquiry committee that he knew nothing about it.

Stark, former chief of naval operations, was the first witness as the committee resumed it recessed about a month ago.

Before he began testifying, Seth Richardson, committee counsel, put into the record several documents. These indicated that Winston Churchill pressed Roosevelt as early as February, 1941, to "instill in Japan anxiety" that a move toward Singapore would mean war with the United States.

Stark, Marshall Recalled

Stark and Gen. George C. Marshall, former Army chief of staff, and now envoy to China, were recalled in an effort to learn their whereabouts the night before the Sunday attack on Pearl Harbor.

Despite testimony by other witnesses that Roosevelt had tried to locate the chief of naval operations that night and had been informed that he was attending a musical comedy at a local theater, Stark said again he could not remember where he was.

Richardson recalled previous testimony by Comdr. Lester R. Schulz, on duty at the White House that night, that Roosevelt had exclaimed "this means war" when he read a 13-part Japanese diplomatic message.

From White House Files

Stark testified that he knew nothing about receipt of the message until he went to his office in a routine way the next morning.

The documents put into the record by Richardson came from State department and White House files.

One document was a message from the then British prime minister to Roosevelt dated Feb. 15, 1941, expressing concern that "the Japanese mean to make war on us, or to do something which would compel us to make war on them,

Question Youths in Girl's Death

St. Louis, April 9.—(AP)—Two St. Louis youths were being questioned today by the St. Louis county sheriff's office in an effort to throw some light on the mysterious murder of 16-year-old Alice Shryock, who was found mutilated and shot to death in a wooded area near Creve Coeur lake last Saturday.

St. Louis police said they picked up the young men after learning that one of them had told friends he knew more about the murder than he "was saying." The other youth, police said, admitted being near the scene at the time the body was found. Both insisted they did not know Miss Shryock.

A report from the Indiana state highway patrol on the movements of a youth who wrote love letters to Miss Shryock indicated he was at work as a clerk in Charlestown, Ind., grocery last Wednesday and Thursday. The girl apparently was killed early Thursday morning. John E. Shryock, the girl's father, testified at the coroner's inquest that the youth in Charlestown had recently written a threatening letter to Alice.

The Indiana youth told highway patrolmen that he and the girl "went together" while she and her family lived at Charleston. The Shryocks moved to Overland, St. Louis suburb, last August.

Dixon Woman, 99, Sprightly, Gay, Votes in Primary Today

Mrs. Emma Ames, 99, who lives with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Goodsell, 317 East Fellows street, was 73 years old when the 19th amendment, granting women the right to vote, became effective in August, 1920. This morning she showed that she still likes that privilege by appearing at the polls at 9:30 o'clock to cast her ballot in today's election primaries.

Tall and sprightly, she walked into the 11th precinct polling place, the Masonic temple, registered and then moved into a booth to mark her ballot. She had left her glasses at home, but said she didn't need them.

Mrs. Ames, who came here 15 years ago to make her home with Mr. and Mrs. Goodsell when her husband died in Wisconsin, was an accomplished artist and musician. She pursued her art work until she was 79, and still retains an active interest in it.

A native of Pittsford, Vt., she studied in New York and came to Wisconsin with her husband in middle age.

She has a date for the national elections in 1948, too. Attorney Harry Warner told her this morning that he'd drop by to take her to the polls then.

Thieves at Large in Lee County With Stock of High Explosives

The Sheriff's office was still searching this morning for the thieves who broke into a powder magazine at the Medusa Portland Cement company plant on River road north of Dixon and stole 350 dynamite caps and 250 feet of T. N. T. primer cord.

Officials believed the theft occurred over the weekend. It was discovered by Forrest LaMaster, 219 Chamberlin street, quarry foreman at the plant, yesterday. He reported that two padlocks on the door of the cement magazine in which the explosives were stored had been broken.

Officials of the plant expressed fear yesterday that loss of life or severe property damage might result if the thief or thieves were not familiar with the primer cord, which they described as quick-acting and highly dangerous. Officials feared that the primer cord might be mistaken for fuse.

Tough First Year in White House Over For Truman

Advisers' Mistakes and Strong Opposition Hit Post-War Plans

Washington, April 9—(AP) — Harry S. Truman became president one year ago this Friday. It's been a tough year for him.

When he went into the White House April 12, 1945, we were at war with Germany and Japan. By mid-August both wars were over.

Then this smiling, zippy, fast-talking, full of confidence that everything would be all right, faced peace. He had a lot to learn.

He talked too fast and sometimes too casually on the gravest questions. He had to learn to slow up and be more cautious.

When peace came, he started throwing off wartime controls, depending on advisors to say which should go.

Advisors Made Mistakes

His advisors made some mistakes, bad ones. For instance: in sacking controls over building although building materials were scarce.

Instead of going into needed, lowcost homes, the materials went into other things. Belatedly, the government is putting back the controls.

Members of his own Democratic party in congress, particularly southern Democrats, have harpooned some of his best intentions.

He has made more than 25 major proposals to congress. Congress still is sitting on the majority of them.

To keep down living costs, he had said wages couldn't be raised —if they meant higher prices — without government consent.

Losing its wartime overtime, labor wanted higher wages. Business said it couldn't raise wages without higher prices. So a big segment of labor struck.

The old, traditional, free bargaining between losses and workers went on, with the government force to sit on the sidelines.

Plenty of Opposition

Finally fed up, Mr. Truman asked congress for a law to delay strikes and set up government fact-finding boards to learn the truth.

Labor and congress ganged up on this notion and throttled it in congress. Congress is still wrestling with the idea of some kind of labor law but not the kind Mr. Truman asked for.

Mr. Truman has proclaimed repeatedly that we will be militarily strong in a still-troubled world to preserve peace and our own safety and to fulfill our obligations in occupied countries.

But our armed forces are falling apart through demobilization.

And congress still has not made up its mind about continuing the draft and invoking military training, although Mr. Truman said both were needed to keep us militarily strong.

Our foreign problems are far from settled. Only Saturday Mr. Truman cautioned that rivalry between Britain and Russia in the Middle East might cause trouble.

As he starts his second year he knows that most of his big labor troubles—except for the coal strike—are over for awhile.

But there's no sign that congress will change its attitude or that events abroad will move along smoothly.

F. D. R. STILL AN ISSUE

Washington, April 9—(AP) — Franklin Delano Roosevelt died a year ago this week, but his name and policies still are the subject of hot political oratory.

Debate about the late resident breaks out frequently in congress, and political leaders said today they expect his program to be an issue in the coming elections.

House Democratic leader McCormack of Massachuetts contended that Republicans already have injected Roosevelt's name into the campaign by "trying to smear him" in the investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Republicans hotly denied this. Reps. Keefe (R-Wis) and Gearhart (R-Calif), members of the Pearl Harbor investigating committee which reopens its public hearing briefly tomorrow, asserted their only desire is to tell the whole story of the sneak Japanese attack.

"When the last word is written those who cried partisanship in their miserableness will draw their reward in the contempt of the American people which they so richly deserve", Gearhart said in a reply to McCormack.

Some Republican leaders, who asked not to be named, said that while many of their campaign speakers undoubtedly will assail the administrations of both Truman and Roosevelt, party members are being urged to concentrate their fire on Truman.

Tomorrow's reopening of the Pearl Harbor hearings was ordered to hear additional testimony from Adm. John R. Reardall, naval aide to Roosevelt, and Adm. Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations of the time of the disaster.

TAFT PRAISED FOR OPPOSING SOCIAL MEDICINE

Dr. Robert S. Berghoff, 30 N. Michigan ave., president elect of the Illinois State Medical society, Friday in a letter to Sen. Taft (R-O) congratulated the Ohio legislator on the "fearless stand" Taft has taken in opposing enactment of the pending Murray-Wagner-Dingell health bill. The bill proposes a vast system of government controlled medical and hospital care under multiplied social security taxes.

Referring to recent press dispatches which said that Sen. Murray (D-Mont) author of the bill shook his fist at Taft and threatened to have him ejected from a committee hearing on the measure, Dr. Berghoff told Taft his condemnation of the measure as the "most socialistic" ever before congress, will inspire rejoicing in the hearts of millions of freedom loving Americans.

In his letter, Dr. Berghoff said he was writing not only in behalf of 10,000 Illinois doctors, but also " for the citizens of this state who are the prospective victims of socialized medicine."

A FEE FOR THE BARBER

Chicago. —The barber wants more money and little enough he is asking for, when you compare his services with those of other benefactors, such as doctors and lawyers. Remember, it isn't just for a few pills that a doctor charges you an anesthetic fee; it's to pay for his Heidelberg education. When a lawyer sends you a bill, he must include not only the 10 minutes it took to lose your case but the 10 years it took him for research into Blackstone.

The barber's fee is not for just a hair cut but for his advice and instruction on current affairs, politics, economics, science, literature, fine arts, metaphysics, and horseracing. Consider how discerning a barber must be that he can diagnose each client's business or profession and render sage advice on how to conduct it. No one ever leaves the barber chair without being stimulated for the rest of the day. If mental stimulus is not enough, the barber knows how to brush enough hairs down your neck to keep you on the jump.

The barber, as a professional man, should not be hampered by commercialism. Let him charge according to the earnings of his clients and according to services rendered . . . a substantial fee for a hair cut and market forecast, and a more modest fee for a trim and a tip on the sixth at Belmont.

Mark Taber.

Henry J. Kaiser interests owe the Reconstruction Finance corporation $103,268,200, or about 36 per cent of the RFC's $286,653,000 total outstanding business loans, as of Feb. 28. This covers all the loans which the RFC made for manufacturing, mining, retailing, and wholesaling operations. All direct loans by RFC, except those to its subsidiaries, totaled $1,368,700,000 outstanding, as of Feb. 28, so the Kaiser loans amounted to 7½ per cent of this overall figure.

Hollywood

Hollywood, April 9—(AP)—The current movie cowboys, says veteran horse opera producer Harry Sherman, are a bunch of yodeling pantywaists who scarcely know which end of the horse is which.

Sherman, who is preparing Luke Short's hard-hitting "Ramrod" for Enterprise Productions, is an advocate of the old-style of western hero—the laconic outdoor man who prefers action to words. That's why Sherman is agin' the present crop.

"In the first place", he declared, "most of them spend a lot of their time singing. Now anybody who is familiar with the west knows that cowboys aren't always whipping out a guitar and bursting into song. In fact, they don't sing much at all".

That ain't all, said Sherman; most of the western stars don't know any better".

"For instance they are always making the horse rear on its hind legs. No real cowboy ever rears his horse except maybe in a parade. But these movie actors rear their horses because they don't know any better".

Sherman, who has been making westerns since 1917, isn't worried, though. "These singing cowboys are just a fad", he said. "They'll blow over".

Hold on to that "Million-Dollar Rain"

That welcome rain that brings new life to your land, crops and livestock is the traditional "million-dollar rain" known to every farmer and rancher.

There is an old saying, "You can't do much about the weather." But you can do a great deal about what the weather does to your land. Rain can bring relief after drouth and is worth that million dollars —or it can be a savage enemy that "dashes off with grit in its teeth and tears down our soil like a billion furious buzz saws."

Water that "walks downhill' is your ally in increasing the production of your land. And one secret of handling rainfall properly is "farming on the level"—by strip cropping, contour plowing, terracing. Cover crops, grassed waterways, dams and farm ponds also help control the destructive power of rain. Then you hold the rain where it falls. Surface run-off is slowed down to the point where it doesn't erode your topsoil away. And as your water "walks downhill," it soaks into the soil, makes plant food nutrients available to the roots of crops and, penetrating further, fills up nature's great underground reservoirs.

Water thus stored in the subsoil is the source of the wells and springs which supply homes and farms and ranches. For years this "water table" has been dropping very seriously in some sections. But where soil conservation has been practiced over large areas, the lowering of the "water table" has been a less serious problem. Soil and water can never be divorced in any good land management program. These two great resources are wedded for all time, and from their union comes the wealth of America's agriculture and the prosperity of the nation.

Martha Logan's Recipe for Easter Ham

The mellow flavor of ham rates it one of the most popular of meats. Glaze your ham with honey, marmalade or maple syrup to save sugar. Place the ham, fat side up, on rack in uncovered pan. No water needed, as the fat will baste the ham naturally. Bake in a moderately slow oven until tender. Three to four hours will be enough. Garnish the platter with pickled peaches or apricots, or hot spiced orange slices.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW!

What is the meaning of the expression "farming on the level"?

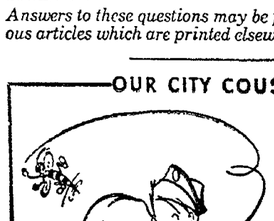

With what groups of people must a meat packing company like Swift & Company co-operate to operate successfully?

Who must earn a fair profit for the livestock-and-meat industry to operate?

Why is it important to make water "walk downhill"?

Answers to these questions may be found in the various articles which are printed elsewhere on this page.

OUR CITY COUSIN

CITY COUSIN DIDN'T SEE WHERE THE LITTLE BEE DID FLEE... WHEE-EE-E!

F. M. Simpson

THE EDITOR'S COLUMN

In addition to being a business corporation, Swift & Company is people—62,000 folks like you and me who have pooled their savings to build a business. These savings are invested in plants and equipment, in livestock and other raw materials, and in all the many things that make up Swift & Company.

Without people there could be no business, no Swift & Company. There must be people (shareholders) to supply the capital; others (farmers and ranchers) to supply the raw materials; many thousands (employes) who work with their heads and hands for the company; and the millions of consumers who buy the meat and other products.

The success of a business enterprise depends on how these various groups of people get along together. In other words, there must be goodwill and cooperation between the owners of Swift & Company and livestock producers, employes, and the company's customers.

To maintain goodwill we know that Swift & Company must: 1) pay fair prices for raw materials, including livestock; 2) pay a good day's pay for a good day's work; 3) provide the money to keep plants and facilities efficient; 4) pay Federal, State and Municipal taxes; 5) earn a profit to give our owners a fair return on their invested savings.

The management of Swift & Company recognizes this five-fold responsibility to the various groups of people who make our business. It is to their interest that we manage our business efficiently, that we earn a sufficient profit to let us continue contributing to the well-being of more and more people.

F. M. Simpson.
Agricultural Research Department

WORTH THINKING ABOUT

In view of the recent talk about the business, profits, etc., of the meat packers, it's worth remembering the basic economics of all businesses in this country.

To be successful, any business must do four things —1) it must purchase its raw materials at prices comparable to the prices paid by its competitors; 2) through know-how, efficiency, good operating, it must manufacture products of comparable quality at a manufacturing cost no higher than that of its competitors; 3) in doing this, it must pay its workers wage rates comparable to the going wage-scale paid by others; 4) and it must sell its product at prices that a large part of the public is willing and able to pay.

In the livestock-and-meat industry, this simply means that prices must be high enough to earn both cost and a decent profit for the livestock producer, the meat packer and the retail merchant—and low enough to keep the great masses of people eating meat.

OBJECTIONABLE ODORS AND FLAVORS IN MILK can be prevented by removing the cause. Feed is the cause of most of the trouble. The most pronounced flavors and odors are produced by garlic, onions, turnips, cabbage, rape, kale, and certain weeds such as bitterweed and stinkweed. Sudden changes to such feeds as green alfalfa, green sweet clover or silage may produce temporary flavors in the milk. Odors may also be absorbed from the barn by carelessly handled milk.

SUPPLEMENTARY PASTURES AND FULL FEEDING

by Dean E. A. Trowbridge, University of Missouri

E. A. Trowbridge

Experience and research prove that pastures grown on fertile soil, producing grass of sufficient quality and quantity, will provide all essential food requirements of cattle. In grazing, gains up to 60% of the grazing season's total gains are usually made before July first. During the hot, dry days of July and August, gains are frequently low or lacking, and indeed an actual loss of weight often occurs; but with fall, gains again resume.

These facts show the importance of providing supplementary pasture for the summer. In Missouri, Lespedeza is an efficient summer crop, and when used as supplementary pasture it allows other native pasture grasses to build up and provide good growths for fall and winter.

When cattle are pasture-fed until two to two and one-half years old, on good pasture, plus good winter roughage, they should gain on an average of a pound a day. With a sixty-day period of full feeding (requiring twenty bushels of corn), most well-bred cattle will finish out and grade "Good" at a weight of 1050 to 1200 pounds. Yearling cattle, after a full season of grazing good pastures, need from 100 to 130 days on full feed (twenty to twenty-five bushels of corn and a hundred pounds of supplement), and should then grade "Good" at a weight of 850 to 950 pounds.

Of Interest to Farmers

County to Benefit by Money Spent on Rural Repair Jobs

Expenditures totalling more than $1,174,000 will be made in the next few years by home owners on farms and in small communities of Lee county to improve present eletric service and home plumbing.

These outlays will mean additional income to practically every local business and will finance additional wiring, bathroom improvements and new electrical equipment for the county's 3,965 farm and rural homes already served with electricity, according to a studuy released by the Tile Council of America.

Introduction of running water, installation of tiled bathrooms and replacement of out-moded plumbing fixtures head the lost of most wanted farm home features, D. P. Forst, chairman of the Council's Residential Construction Committee, revealed. One in five farm families throughout the nation plan bathroom improvements, he said.

Additional wiring is needed in practically every farm home with electricity, according to the study. A huge market likewise exists for milking machines, quick freezing units, electric motors, baby chick brooders andd other equipment.

Expenditures in the county are part of a $101,037,000 program to be undertaken by Illinois farm and rural home owners in the next five years, the study revealed. An estimated $2,294,900,000 on similar improvements to present electric service will be spent in the nation during that time.

"Round-Up Day" at Montgomery Ward Farm Store

Shown above is portion of the crowd gathered Saturday, March 30th, at Montgomery Ward's Farm Store in Dixon. Farmers and friends from the Dixon trade area were in greater attendance than ever before at this semi-annual event. Souvenirs, refreshments, and musical entertainment were special features of the day. Advice with regard to the operation of various implements as well as an informative Chicken Clinic were afforded those vitally interested in farming problems. Guests were free to acquaint themselves with Ward's selection of farm equipment essential for successful farming. The co-operation of a group of local merchants and the assistance of the boys and girls of Future Farmers of America helped this event to prove very successful.

The automobile has not entirely replaced the horse as is evidenced by the fact that last year there were over 20,000,000 horseshoes made in nearly 300 different sizes and shapes. Times change, a tomobiles change, and people change outwardly, but human nature doesn't. All of us in buying any commodities want to get those things which have been proved good not only because of their own value but because of the years of experience back of them.

Ogle County Farm Bureau Notes

Ogle County Farm Bureau has added a new member to its staff of employes to assist the farm advisor in agricultural extension work.

John Kinsinger, recently discharged from the army as first lieutenant in the cavalry replacement center at Ft. Riley, Kansas, took up his new duties beginning April 1. He will have charge of the agriculture 4-H club work and the rural youth work and will assist with other extension projects.

Mr. Kinsinger grew up on a farm in Livingston county, Illinois, where his father is now active in grain and livestock farming and an enthusiastic member of the Farm Bureau and the Farm Bureau-Farm Management Service. As a boy he was active in 4-H club work. He graduated in agriculture at the University of Illinois in the class of 1942 and went immediately into military service. He is married and he and his wife are now living in Oregon. She is a graduate nurse.

Under Kinsinger's direction 14 local 4-H clubs are now working on their enrollments and preparing for their local and county activities for the 1946 season.

The artificial insemination service organized by Ogle County Farm Bureau is ready to begin work beginning April 10.

A technician for this project, Robert J. Sikora, formerly a dairy herd association tester and inseminator in Wisconsin, has been employed and will be located in Oregon.

The service has been organized as a unit of the Northern Illinois Dairy Cattle Breeding Association of Dundee, Illinois.

One hundred farms accounting for 950 cows have thus far been enrolled in this service which dairymen in the county believe will be of much value to them in developing high producing herds.

A Thought for Today

Woe to the rebellious children, saith the Lord, that take counsel, but not of me. —Isaiah 30:1.

Men seldom, or rather never for a length of time and deliberately, rebel against anything that does not deserve rebelling against.—Carlyle.

Final Statement Withheld

Lt.-Gen. Masaharu Homma, the "Beast of Bataan," kept his date with a U. S. Army firing squad the other day, just six weeks after his uniformed comrade-in-crime, Lt.-Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, "Tiger of Luzon," stretched a hangman's noose. Thus died, in the Philippine capital they did so much to desecrate, the two principal war criminals among Japanese field commanders. A most fitting end. Or is it an end?

Yamashita, who went to his revered ancestors in the "disgrace" of an undecorated fatigue uniform with only a rope for a necktie, favored his executioners with a gracious pardon for their injustice to him. But Homma, permitted an "honorable" death in full military regalia, did not feel constrained to dilute the sacredness of his worldly exit with consideration for infidel Americans. He refused to make a final statement.

This is not necessarily to say that the "Beast" has been eternally denied voice. His "final statement," it seems to us, has merely been withheld for the time being. It is now being prepared, in Washington and in Tokyo, in London and in Nagoya, at Hunter College and at Tokei Institute. When at last it is released, it will determine which ideology truly won World War II, and whether the savage philosophy of Yamashita and Homma really died with them.

The American courts-martial which passed judgment on the "Tiger" and on the "Beast" viewed the trials as an opportunity further to impress the Japanese people with the fairness and the impartiality of democratic processes. These men, obviously guilty of the most heinous crimes against humanity, were accorded super-scrupulous legal consideration, though they long since had been condemned by outraged international public opinion.

And were the Nipponese convinced of the desirability of democracy? We rather think not. It is more probable that they regarded the courts' deliberations as mildly interesting preliminaries to an inevitable end—the pronouncement of death sentences.

The evidence is present in abundance, it seems to us. Yamashita's conviction was followed by mass demonstrations of protest in Tokyo; Homma's by public exhibitions of grief for this man who "but did his duty to the Emperor." The democratic general elections of April 10, which have given rise to so many foreign eulogies, have aroused so little interest in Japan that the lightest of voting turn-outs is expected, despite the national holiday decreed. Public criticism of Hirohito is still socially intolerable. And the "magnificent" new constitution remains but an historic piece of paper.

The final returns are not yet in, of course. The Shintoistic fanaticism of Yamashita and Homma may yet be eradicated.

But so far it has more than held its own in what remains of the Greater East Asia Co-Prosperity Sphere."

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited)

Washington—Everyone is saying the world crisis has passed. UNO is twiddling its thumbs until May 6, judging the Iran issue more or less settled. On its agenda are only two matters of organization. But—

Russia is known to be planning a regular army of 6,500,000 men or more after next July 1. We are planning an army then of 1,500,000.

Russia is planning an airforce of 1,200,000 or more in her army. We are planning an air force of 400,000.

Russia has inaugurated conscription which is to provide 1,500,000 of fresh manpower each year, with two years of service for regulars and five years in her army for specialized services. I have not heard an authoritative estimate of her planes, but we are to have 5,000 for one-third the number of men she contemplates, and if the same ratio of men to planes could be maintained by Russia, she would have 15,000 (she cannot provide herself anywhere near that number). Of her 6,500,000 or more men, fully 5,000,000 are supposed to be her own troops, the other 1,500,000 coming from her satellites.

Is the world crisis over?

If so, why does Russia need such an army and air force, three to five times greater than ours?

In the face of such figures, how can people like Senator Pepper airse and naively accuse the United States of kicking Russia around, or proposing to?

Great Britain has nothing formidible, a scattered army which will be about the size of China's July 1 or shortly thereafter, and China has far more planes than Britain, mostly ours. Britain will have about half our force in her home army, the others being dominion troops. Measured in world military terms, she will be weaker than ever before in her history. The army expansion program of DeGaulle in France has been defeated by the communists and France cannot be considered a world force.

Give China 1,000,000; Britain a little over 1,000,000; France around 400,000 and us 1,550,000 (with air), and Russia will have a force greater by 1,500,000 or more, than all the major nations combined. (These figures fill out the Balkan estimates of Soviet strength given you last Friday.)

The estimates of our army are based upon announced factors such as minimum occupation requirements, keeping bases, transportation lines, etc., and lastly—and perhaps least in consideration—maintaining home defenses. They do not contemplate war with anyone. What requirements the Soviet figures are based on, I do not know.

Yet it is evident in these realities the world crisis has not passed, and that the idling in UNO reflects simply the ignoring of problems of world peace greater than Iran. No peace treaties have been concluded for Italy and Austria. The peace for Germany and Asia is unsettled. But even if these diplomatic affairs are eventually adjusted, can there be a world confidence in peace with Russia maintaining such plans?

Peace cannot come unless or until Russia opens up, drops her isolationism, her censorship, and takes her footing on the same basis as other nations of the world. Her tremendous military program, coupled with her secrecy, cannot accomplish any result except world unrest, uncertainty and suspicion. Free inspection of limited armaments on the other hand would establish a justifiable feeling of international security.

In view of this condition of affairs, it is plain enough our estimates of military requirements may be too small. Any proposal that we give Russia the atomic bomb, in addition to the prospective military advantages, is absurd. Above all, our national state of mind is no longer alert to realities, but is already lapsing into theories of defensive security, which caused the past two wars to last twice as long as they would have lasted, had we been prepared to face reasonable prospects.

The greatest defect of American defense has always been our customary woeful deficiency in men and weapons inspired by our customary belief that the latest war was absolutely the last one, and, in any event, that we will have a year or so to get ready.

Oceans saved us from effects of our follies of the past, but science has now shrunk the oceans into ponds.

MRS. W. E. WEST

Mount Morris—Ida Jane Miller West, the fourth daughter of Street C. and Martha Holland Miller, was born May 1, 1871 near Elkhart, Iowa, and passed away at her home in Mt. Morris, April 5, 1946, aged 54 years, eleven months and four days.

Mrs. West attended the country school near Elkhart, Ia. As a child, she attended the services of the Christian church with her parents. Later she attended the Des Moines Valley Church of the Brethren and in the fall of 1888, at the age of seventeen, she accepted Christ as her Saviour and was baptized by Elder S. M. Goughnour.

On December 22, 1889, she was united in marriage to William Ellis West by Elder Goughnour.

To this union there were born three children: Beth Emily who died in infancy; Orville Street, now of Polo; and Pearl Ellen, now Mrs. Curtis McCauley of Roanoke, Ill.

About 1893, Mrs. West and her husband were chosen to the deacon's office and to the ministry in 1898.

While they lived on a farm in Iowa, Mrs. West shared in these responsibilities, often taking care of the farm while her husband was away doing church work.

In 1915, the Wests moved to Mt. Morris. For one year Mrs. West was matron of the college. Their home was always open tot he college students, many of whom will never forget the hospitality and knidness of the West home. For six years, their home was shared with three Wilbur Stover children, Emmert, Miriam and James, while their parents were in mission work in India.

For about nine years, Mrs. West accompanied her husband regularly in his ministry at the Shannon Church of the Brethren and later for about three years at the Cherry Grove church, teaching in the Sunday school and assisting in the music of the church.

The Wests celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in the Mt. Morris Church of the Brethren December 23, 1939, with more than 200 friends present.

On May 6, 1941, Mrs. West suffered a stroke. For almost five years, until the time of her passing, none could enter her room without being impressed by her patience, her cheerfulness and her hopeful outlook on life.

Besides her husband and two children, she is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Mary Henderson of Elkhart, Ia., Mrs. J. Q. Goughnour and Mrs. Etta Hutton of Ankeny, Iowa; seven grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at 2:00 at the Mt. Morris Church of the Brethren, in charge of Rev. Foster B. Statler and assisted by Rev. E. R. Henricks. Interment in the Chapel Hill cemetery, Dixon.

Universal Public Health Program Hope of Truman

In a message on the observance of "Know Your Public Health Nurse Week" this week, President Truman, declaring the public health nurse is one of the strongest links in the fight for disease prevention and the promotion of good health, said he hoped the day not far distant when the services of public health nurses "will be available to the total population".

An adequate program to provide public health nursing service for all the people will require approximately 65,000 public health nurses, he said, commenting that this observance brings tribute to an important health group at a time when the nation is realizing the necessity of an expanded public health program. The president said:

Truman's Statement

"The observance of "Know Your Public Health Nurse Week" brings long overdue public recognition to one of the most important groups of health workers in the country. I am pleased that this annual tribute has been inaugurated at a time when our people are awakening to the necessity for a greatly expanded public health program.

"If we are to attain 'health security for all, regardless of residence, station or race—everywhere in the United States' as requested in the recent health message to the congress, we shall need not only more medical facilities, but also more doctors, scientists, dentists, nurses and other specialists. Adequate public health nursing service for all will require around 65,000 public health nurses—or more than two new nurses in addition to every one now on duty in local, state and federal agencies.

"There is scarcely any public health activity in which the services of the specially trained nurse are not utilized. Her skills complement those of the family physician when she carries out his instructions for home care of the patient in a wide variety of situations. Today, when our civilian hospitals report a serious personnel shortages as they experienced during war years, the stay of patients is being cut to minimum and follow-up care in the home is of paramount importance.

"Thus, the public health nurse is one of the strongest links in the chain of disease prevention and the promotion of good health on the part of both children and adults. Her contribution to better individual and community health cannot be overestimated. It gives me genuine pleasure to pay tribute to the public health nurses of America. I hope the day will not be far distant when their services will be available to the total population".

ANN froze up inside, and with an effort brought her attention back to Millicent, who was still talking.

"You must have taught him that, Ann, and made your own contribution to American literature. It'll be a best seller, I'm sure—"

Ann wondered what it was she had taught him, and then she heard his voice. "Hi Milly—your car's at the gate. The mechanic said it was just a— Oh, hullo, Ann. I didn't know you were back."

Millicent put her hat back on—at the proper angle. Ann noted, with detached admiration. She always had to have a mirror to do that. Then she stood up and said, "If my car's ready, I must run along. Thanks, Colin. Goodby, Ann. It's been nice knowing you." She walked briskly down the path.

When she was out of sight, Colin turned to Ann and said, "Oh, Ann-girl, how I've missed you!" He swept her into his arms and kissed her suddenly averted cheek. Then he stood back to look at her. "What's wrong, my dear? You aren't ill, are you?"

"No, I'm all right," Ann said, and thought detachedly that even her voice sounded frozen. All her anticipated pleasure at seeing Colin had evaporated, and her delighted joy in just being alive seemed to have turned to dust and ashes.

Only once did she speak on the way back to the house. "When is your book coming out, Colin?"

"In October sometime."

"You always get your copies before they go on sale, don't you?"

"Hm? Oh, sure."

Colin made no explanation of Millicent's presence in Port Drake, and Ann would have died rather than question him. For the first time she knew jealousy, bitter and burning. She never had been jealous of Nina, somehow. Nina simply hadn't existed—she had been something ethereal and unreal until the wedding. Then she had been Jock's wife, and one simply wasn't jealous of a man's wife. But it seemed that one could be jealous of a man's former wife.

COLIN threw his book across the room, and poured himself a drink. Ann had gone to bed. Ann had gone to bed and hadn't kissed him good night. Hell! what was wrong with Ann? It couldn't be meeting Millicent—she had known about Millicent before, and had taken her existence with equanimity. It was too bad that he couldn't explain Millicent's presence in Port Drake to Ann, but he could scarcely tell her that she had been brought there to exert a little blackmail on Ann's behalf. She had done it rather well, too. Beulah had capitulated neatly, and probably could be counted on to be Ann's champion in the future. Colin was glad that he had remembered that Millicent had something on Beulah. He didn't know what it was, but it was apparently potent. What could have upset Ann so?

He lay sleepless for a long while, listening to Ann's regular breathing. Finally he dropped off into a doze, to be roused by a low moan from Ann's bed. In a moment he was awake, half out of bed, to find Ann fumbling with the light. He reached out and turned it on. "What is it, Ann? What's wrong?"

Ann stared at him, her eyes wide and dark in a face white as paper. "Something has happened to Jock—I have to go to him—" She was out of bed, and hurrying toward her clothes.

Colin sprang up, and caught her as she swayed. Her body was cold, and she pushed him away. "I have to go to him—something dreadful has happened—oh, Colin, I'm frightened!" she wailed.

"Ann, Ann—be reasonable. Nothing has happened to Jock. You've had a nightmare. Get into bed, child—you'll be ill—"

"I must go—it wasn't a dream. I tell you, something awful has happened—I must go to him—" She was fumbling with her clothes, dogged determination on her face, but her hands were trembling.

"Ann—listen. I'll phone Jock. He'll probably want my scalp for getting him up at this time of night, but I'll phone him to prove to you he's all right. Then will you go back to bed?"

"Phone him," she said.

COLIN cursed himself for a fool as he put in the call. Nina's voice answered almost immediately. "Yes?"

"Nina—sorry to disturb you—this is Colin. How is Jock?" Even as he said it, he realized how silly it sounded.

"He'll live. I just got in from the hospital," Nina said wearily. Then, in sudden comprehension, "What do you know about it?"

"About what? Sorry, Nina. I'm being stupid. What is wrong with Jock?"

"He was in an automobile accident. He had been drinking. There was a girl with him. She's dead." Nina's voice was toneless, repeating facts for Colin's enlightenment.

"I'm sorry, Nina. Is there anything I can do?"

"You might drive in tomorrow."

"Do you want me tonight?"

"No, I'll take a sedative and get some sleep. Good night, Colin."

He turned from the phone to Ann. "Jock will be all right. He was hurt in an auto accident. I'll take you in to see him tomorrow," he said soothingly. "Now will you go to bed, Ann?"

She seemed a little dazed. "Now I'll go to bed," she said docilely.

Colin brought a glass of water and two small white tablets to Ann, and she took them unquestioningly. "Stay here, Colin," she said, reaching out her hand.

He turned out the light and sat there, holding her hand. Soon she slept, but there was no more sleep for him that night.

The attorney general held that veterans were not affected by a commission rule which provides that a civil service employe on leave of absence who accepts other employment without consent of the appointing authority and the commission is considered to have resigned.

Antioch Landlord Is Enjoined by Court

Chicago, April 9—(AP)—An Antioch, Ill., landlord who, a tenant charges, tried to smoke out a family by stuffing old inner tubes down the chimney today is enjoined from any illegal attempts to evict tenants.

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday granted an injunction requested by the OPA, restraining John Dewar, the landlord, and also ordering him to pay $120 in rental overchatges to Mrs. Evelyn Clements if he cannot substantiate a claim that an extra $10 monthly was in repayment of a personal debt.

Dewar was fined $15 Jan. 18 on a disorderly conduct charge brought by Mrs. Clements who accused him of smoke-out attempts.

A Lake county grand jury hearing is still pending on another complaint of Mrs. Clements that Dewar threw oil on the porch and ruined a rug. He was held to the grand jury on a malicious mischief charge on that complaint.

during the next few weeks or months."

"There are some," Churchill added, "who consider that in Japan's present mood, she would have no hesitation to entertain an attempt to make war against both your country and mine. Although it is my personal belief that the odds are definitely against such an event, one cannot tell.

"Whatever you are able to do to instill in Japan anxiety as to a double war may succeed in averting this danger. Nevertheless, should we alone be attacked, it would be difficult to overstate the grave character of the consequences."

Another Message Later

Five days later another message came from Churchill which said:

"Have received better news concerning Japan. It seems Jap foreign minister is shortly going to Moscow, Berlin and Rome for the purpose of covering the failure of action against us. The fear of the U. S. appears to have postponed attack which seemed imminent. While completely understanding your situation pending enactment of bill on which our hopes depend, the more these fears can be aroused the better."

Presumably, the bill to which he referred was the lend-lease act, enacted in the spring of 1941.

Included among the documents was an appraisal of the situation by the British chiefs of staff who suggested that American naval forces be sent to Singapore. Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, delivered it to the state department on Feb. 11 with a note saying:

"I need not emphasize how greatly my government hopes that the United States government will feel able to take some effective action in the very near future to deter the Japanese."

Other documents disclosed that the British were consulted about, and encouraged movement of some Pacific fleet units to the Atlantic. The committee has heard contentions that transfer of those units made the Pacific fleet weaker than Japan's naval forces.

Task Force Thinks Professor Worried

Washington, April 9—(AP)—The task force thinks the professor worries overmuch about the earth convulsing possibilities of the atom bomb.

Two of the atom test force experts were asked today about a statement by H. S. Uhler, professor emeritus of physics at Yale university, that the selection of Bikini atoll as the site for a test was "an ill-advised choice" because it might set off a chain of earthquakes of disastrous magnitude. Dr. Uhler expressed his fears in a letter to the New York Times.

He suggested that the bomb explosion might crack the crust under the floor of the pacific, letting in sea water which, coming in contact with volcanic heat, could touch off a chain of earthquakes on its axis and distort its shape. Such a chain earthquake could generate a tidal wave a mile or more high, the professor theorized.

Rear Adm. W. S. Parsons, a deputy director of the joint Army-Navy task force, and Comdr. Roger Revelle, oceanographer and adviser to the force, were asked by reporters about Uhler's theory. They produced records and figures on earthquakes, submarine geograph and big explosions to show why they believe there is no ground for worry.

Los Angeles, April 9—(AP)—The chance of an atomic bomb explosion setting off a warld-razing chain reaction might be thermed infinitisemal, if Dr. Harold C. Urey's estimate is correct.

The University of Chicago physicist and Nobel prize winner, who helped create the atom bomb, in an interview put the chances at one in 100 septillion. That's a 1 followed by 26 zeros.

Chicago—(AP)—The horn in an automobile parked a half block from the Hyde Park police station, blew and blew and tempers of policemen flew as they exhausted every effort to halt the piercing blasts.

For nearly two hours Sergeant John Moroney was harrassed by telephone calls from irate residents unable to sleep.

As police gave up, Cleveland Andrew, who lives near the station, appeared on the scene and walked to the car. He kicked a front wheel. The horn stopped.

apparently conflicting views. But Prince Mozaffar Firouz, Iranian propaganda minister, said it was "entirely a Security Council matter."

At Ala's hotel, a spokesman said the entire Iranian delegation was packing to leave for Washington some time today. He said Ala would not attend the afternoon meeting of the Security Council.

The spokesman refused to discuss the situation further.

Polish Ambassador Oscar Lange informed Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary general, that within the next few days he would ask that a "situation . . . due to international frictions resulting from the existence and activities of the Franco regime in Spain" be placed on the agenda of the Security Council.

The United Nations press office, in announcing the Polish notice, said the brief letter was received last night at Lie's headquarters.

To Pass on Set of Rules

The council was scheduled to meet today to pass upon a set of permanent rules by which it may govern its proceedings in the future. The rules were drawn up by a committee of experts representing all 11 members, and are considered by delegates to be non-controversial. United Nations officials said there seemed no question that Gromyko would attend the session—his first since he walked out in protest against discussing the Iranian case two weeks ago.

Whether he would insist upon bringing up the demand for dismissing the Iranian case or wait until tomorrow was uncertain, but some authorities known to be familiar with his views believed he would not object to one day's delay.

There was much speculation among the council delegations as to why Russia should have come forward with the demand, since if all went well inside Iran it was generally expected that the council's action on May 6 would be little more than a formality.

WORLD INTERESTED
By Dewitt MacKenzie
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Russia has made it clear that she expects the United Nations Security Council to drop consideration of the Soviet-Iranian (Persian) affair on the basis that the matter already has been adjusted by Moscow and Tehran.

We still have to learn whether the council will comply with this demand or will pursue its original idea of "wait and see," that is, of keeping the question on the books until all Russian troops are out of Persia. The United States and Britain in the past have felt that the council should pursue the latter policy.

In any event, even if the adjustment of the current situation is accepted as satisfactory, it would take a most active imagination indeed to reach the conclusion that Persia has ceased to be a focal point in the tremendous readjustment of zones of influence which is proceeding in Europe and Asia. Call it power politics if you want to be realistic. The whole world, of course, has an interest but Russia and Britain are the powers most deeply affected.

In Strategic Position

Today, as for decades past, the status of Persia is of vital concern to both Moscow and London, though for different reasons. Naturally when Persia is mentioned you think of oil, and her wealth in petroleum certainly enters into the picture, but of far greater moment is her geographical position which makes her of strategical importance.

Persia has figured heavily in the long-term policies of Britain and Russia for more than a century. This situation will continue so long as the British empire and the Soviet Union exist in their present forms. By the same token the Persian problam may never be off the books of the United Nations, and it certainly will remain active during the great and delicate readjustment which is now being made in zones of influence.

First Clash Last Century

Czarist Russia and England first clashed in a big way over Persia in the last century when St. Petersburg established a sphere of influence in Persia and Afghanistan, both of which lie up against India. Ostensible Russia's purpose in thus thrusting southward was to reach warm water ports on the Persian Gulf, but it had the effect of creating a potential threat against Britain's great Indian possession, for both Afghanistan and Persia afford land highways into India, and the Persian Gulf furnishes a waterway.

This explosive situation continued until 1907 when an Anglo-Russian convention divided Persia into zones of influence. Russia took the north, Britain the south around the Gulf, and the central part was left neutral. Things went on in this fashion for more than a decade.

Question Opened Again

Then at the end of World War 1 Britain was given the mandates over Iraq, Transjordan and Palestine and her French ally got Syria. So between them they dominated the land route to the Persian Gulf and India.

Now this question has been opened up again. Moreover, Britain's whole position in the Mediterranean and the Middle East—control of her lifeline to her imperial connections in the Far East—is up for readjustment. Russia not only is interested in Persia but is bent on taking her place as one of the Mediterranean powers.

This readjustment is one of the great pages of history. It will not be achieved without heartburnings and difficulties, and yet it would appear to be one of the inevitabilities. A generation ago it likely would have provided a sure basis for war. But times have changed and we have a right to hope that the alteration will be effected peacefully.

Certainly this epochal shift in world relationships provides the United Nations with perhaps its greatest opportunity for service to mankind.

UNRRA Forbids Danes To Export Stored Meat

Copenhagen, April 9—(AP)—While famine threatens many parts of the world, Denmark's cold storage warehouses are filled with meat which eshe is unable to export, Jacob Tvedegaard, chairman of the Danish agriculture ministry's cattle meat committee, said today.

Tvedegaard characterized the situation as "sheer madness".

"The Danish foreign office and various agricultural organizations are doing everything to make it possible to sell the meat surplus, but with no luck", he declared. "Several European countries would like to buy, but according to UNRRA's allocation lists they are not able or allowed to do so".

He asserted that Danish representatives at a food congress now being held in Switzerland will make a new attempt to obtain UNRRA permission to sell surplus meat to the European countries concerned.

Interference

Jersey City, N. J. April 9—(AP)—A suspect who broke away from police got the good people of Railroad Avenue to run interference for him last night when he began scattering greenbacks in the path of four Jersey City detectives.

Scores of residents began scrambling for the money. The detectives, however, finally nabbed the man they had been questioning several blocks before.

Detective Anthony Williams reported that the police later picked up $218 in cash and two boxes of jewelry suspect had discarded. Police were unable to estimate the total sum the man had thrown away and the suspect himself was not talking.

central committee members from each of the 25 congressional districts.

In County Balloting

In the county balloting, nominations were made for county judge, clerk, treasurer, sheriff and superintendent of schools; for probate judge and clerk in counties with more than 70,000 population; and commissioners in counties without township organization; downstate precinct committeemen, and Cook county township committeemen were elected.

In 26 of the 51 senatorial districts, voters today made final choices on state representatives. In these districts, 78 of the nominees chosen were in effect elected because of pre-primary bi-partisan agreement on division of the three seats alloted to each district. Other districts will have contests in the November election, but many of the 276 aspirants for 153 house seats were eliminated today.

The field of 82 candidates for the 27 state senate seats also was trimmed. In 19 of the 27 districts there were contests for party nomination, and most of these were in Cook county.

The statewide office primary races were by Republicans Richard Yates Rowe of Jacksonville, organization candidate, against Stephen A. Day of Evanston and I. Jay Brown of Chicago, for state treasurer and William G. Stratton of Morris, against Daniel D. Frazin, David L. Keller and Maurice C. Simpson, all of Chicago, for congress-at-large. Rose and Stratton were expected to win.

League of Nations Being Buried This Week in Birthplace

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 9—(AP)—The League of Nations, 26 years old but sickly from birth, is being buried at Geneva, Switzerland, its home.

World war I was the midwife and World war II was the undertaker.

Disowned early by one of its parents, the United States, the league ailed, suffered convulsions, and had been in a coma since 1939.

The funeral, starting yesterday, may last two weeks. The league members will need that long to express the appropriate regrets.

Thus ends men's first real modern attempt to preserve world peace although they had been dreaming of it from the time of the ancient Greeks.

Neither discouraged nor dismayed by this, but quite sure they have learned from the weaknesses of the league, men have tried again.

They have brought forth now the United Nations, still an infant but showing signs of strength if properly nurtured.

Strange Coincidence

The league started its active existence Jan. 10, 1920 and, strangely, 26 years later to the day, Jan. 10, 1946, the UN went to work.

And, strangely, this happened, too:

Within a few months of the league's opening, Iran protested that Soviet troops were occupying Iranian territory.

Within a few months of the UN opening, Iran protested that Soviet troops were occupying Iranian territory.

The Iranian case in 1920 was settled peacefully and now, in 1946, the Iranian case probably will be settled peacefully.

Because of more vital events, the interment of the league is drawing comparatively little notice.

For generations before World war I men had talked of outlawing war and they talked more as the years rolled on.

The world became smaller. Railroads, ships, and international trade brought nations closer together, made them rely on one another more.

Shocked by the death and destruction of World war I, the allied leaders, including President Woodrow Wilson, decided to make the great attempt.

Wilson came home and tried to sell the idea to America. He broke his health trying. The senate broke his heart by saying "no." We stayed out.

Rickey Plans to Get Rid of Owens

Owens Certain He Made Big Mistake; To Rejoin Dodgers

Rickey's Plans to Trade Ace Mittster Reported Still Unchanged

San Antonio, Tex., April 9 — (AP)—Mickey Owen, roving Dodger catcher, was headed back toward Brooklyn today after a short flirtation with the Mexican league.

Saying he expected to rejoin the Dodgers in 10 days, Owen and his wife left San Antonio by automobile yesterday following his announcement that he had turned down an offer to join the south-of-the-border league.

The catcher's quest for greener pastures wound up in a conference here with Alfonso Pasquel, one of five brothers who operate the Mexican league over an offer to become player-manager for the Torreon club.

Owen said he had talked by telephone with Branch Rickey, Brooklyn president. The player is still under contract to the Dodgers for half a season.

At Nashville, Tenn., Harold Parrott, traveling secretary for the Dodgers, announced last night that Rickey hasn't changed his mind about Owen and still plans to sell or trade him.

Owen is reported to have received $12,500 a year from the Dodgers.

"The nearer I got to Mexico, the more I decided I was making a mistake", Owen said.

He added that he and Pasquel parted on friendly terms and that he would return the money advanced him by the Mexican brothers to show "good faith" in the contract offer. Owen never returned the signed contract to the Mexican league officials, he stated.

Leahy said he expects "a representative Notre Dame team" next fall. Nine games are on the Irish schedule, including contests with Army and Navy.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Willie Pep, 130¾, Hartford, Conn., knocked out Georgie Knox, 128½, Newark, N. J., (3). Nontitle.

CHICAGO — Eddie Lander, 135½, Chicago, knocked out Mike Gravino, 127¼, Niaga, N. Y., (3).

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Nunzio Ferrara, 142, Milwaukee, Wis., and George Larover, 140, Philadelphia, drew (10).

LONDON—Bruce Woodcock, 191½, British heavyweight champion, stopped Bert Gilroy, 173⅜, (2).

Mormonism originated in New York State, being found there by Joseph Smith.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, April 9—(AP)—"What do you think of 176-pound heavyweights"? asks Col. Heinie Miller, ex-president and current executive secretray of the National Boxing association and boxing coach and publicity man at the University of Maryland . . . Heinie takes off from the recent Rocky Graziano-Marty Servo mis-match on the theme that "weight equality is the very basis of fair boxing" . . . The 176-pounder against someone weighing, say, 250, emphasizes the difference a few pounds can make when two good scrappers come together . . . Miller suggests a 185-pound class might be in order—and that's just how the present light-heavyweight division was created . . . We'd say maybe 190 or 195 would be a better dividing line . . . As for the lower divisions, Heinie has his own answer to what happens there. "The heck with sportsmanship and weight equality if the gate is big" . . . And the little guy who risks a beating for the big money is the first to say it.

POINTED PARAGRAPH

Red Smith (N. Y. Herald Tribune) describing Herman Keiser's wait for the finish of the Augusta Golf tournament: "A tall man with the look of a guy who has known great sorrow sat in the Augusta National Golf club, unmoving, expressionless, not drinking or eating or saying much. Just sitting there like a ball player in a hotel lobby".

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

Hinkey Haines, the old Penn Stater, giant footballer and Yankee baseball player, will be back as a National Football league official next fall . . . Van Mungo is said to be beefing at Mel Ott because he was yanked from an exhibition game after Lou Boudreau hit a homer with the bases full. Maybe both should think of Lee Fohl, who was bounced as Celveland manager because of one such pitch. Lee let Fred Coumbe, who was suffering from tonsilitis, pitch to Babe Ruth one day in 1919. The Babe socked one out of the park and that night Fohl went out as manager . . . After surveying a big ad inviting the public to watch Oklahoma U's closing spring football practice last Saturday, Tub-thumper Otis Wile remarked: "Well, they're undefeated, aren't they"?

PROMOTER'S PAIN

When Chick Meehan, who put a lot of time and trouble into an effort to organize a pro football league, encountered Jack Lavelle, the Giants' scout the other day. Chick received this greeting: "What is your connection with this Mexican league"?

CLEANING THE CUFF

Don't put too much faith in mid-western rumors that either Indiana's Branch McCracken or Butler's Tony Hinkle will take the basketball coaching job at Michigan. They're very well satisfied where they are, thank you . . . Colorado college, which makes more dough out of hockey than football, may decide to put on an invitation hockey tourney when a couple of eastern teams invade the mid-west next winter.

Wilman Leads Mades in ABC's Pin Meeting

Buffalo, N. Y., April 9—(AP)—Members of the Chicago Monarchs squad occupied seven spots in top-ten standings of the American Bowling Congress' championship tournament today.

The Monarchs, following a team score of only 2818 Sunday night, individual scored a wholesale upheaval in the standings yesterday with national match-game champion Joe Wilman leading the way.

In other action, teams from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Syracuse moved into the five-man standings.

Wilman, 41-year-old discharged serviceman, rode out a hot streak to hit 2054 for the all-events leadership, missing by 16 pins the record 2070 set by Max Stein of Belleville, Ill., in 1937.

Ace Trout Fisher Says It's Easy to Get Plenty of Fish

Knowledge of Stream is Important Factor in Filling the Creel

State College, Pa.—(NEA)—This college community's No. 1 angler, George Harvey, is looking forward to his 29th consecutive opening day on a Pennsylvania trout stream.

A fisherman at the age of five, the former Pennsylvania State College track star added fly tying to his repertoire five years later, and has since earned recognition as one of the Keystone State's top anglers.

John Alden Knight, widely-known fishing authority, describes Harvey as "the greatest trout fisherman I ever met".

The secret of a full creel, according to Harvey, is the ability to distinguish between limestone and freestone streams—the principal sources of trout.

Know Your Streams

Limestone streams, found in the broad valleys from New England to Tennessee, flow over limestone formations. Freestone waters are generally located in mountain or plateau areas, have as their beds other than limestone rock.

Trout food is under the water in the limestone runs and on top of the water in the freestone waters, confides the expert.

"If it is a limestone stream, fish with underwater lures". Harvey advises. "If it's a freestone, fish with dry flies or surface lures.

"A few small trout can be induced to take a dry fly on a limestone run, particularly in the shallow swift waters or riffles, but those same trout could be taken more easily with nymphs or wet flies".

High water and muddy water nullify his plan, Harvey agrees, but he still contends his advice will stand the test 75 per cent of the time. He also admits that when there are specialized hatchers of insects on limestone streams, the dry fly may be the best bet for a short period.

Anyone Can Do It

"But by and large", he adds, "the roving angler who is never content and who loves to explore new waters will find it profitable to put this theory into practice".

Harvey, a physical education instructor, organized the first college fly tying class while a student at Penn State in 1933, added courses in fly tying.

"Any fisherman can tie flies that will catch fish", is his contention.

Harvey is not the only angler in the family. His wife, Helen, accompanies him on many trips, is an expert caster. Susie, their four-year-old daughter, ties flies like a veteran.

With another season either already under way or rapidly approaching, George Harvey wishes you all good luck.

NBA Wants 2 Title Bouts Each Year

Washington, April 9—(AP) — The National Boxing association insisted today that champions risk their titles against leading challengers once every six months, and that goes for Joe Louis or Billy Conn.

In announcing the NBA's first 1946 quarterly ratings, President Abe J. Greene said a suitable opponent would be available for the winner of the Louis-Conn heavyweight title bout in New York's Yankee stadium, June 19.

The ratings included:

Heavyweight— Champion, Joe Louis, Michigan; local contender—Billy Conn, Pennsylvania.

Lightweight— Champion, Gus Lesnevich, New Jersey.

Middleweight—Champion, Tony Zale, Indiana; logical contender—Rocky Graziano, New York.

Welterweight—Champion, Marty Servo, New York.

Lightweight — Champion, Ike Williams, New Jersey; outstanding boxers include: Willie Joyce, Indiana and Freddie Dawson, Illinois.

Featherweight —Champion, Sal Bartolo, Massachusetts; logical contender—Willie Pep, Connecticut.

Bantamweight — Champion, Manuel Ortiz, California.

Flyweight— Champion, Jackie Patterson, Scotland.

Count Speed Favorite to Take Experimental

New York, April 9—(AP) — Count Speed, a full brother of the great Count Fleet and Mrs. John D. Hertz's hope for another Kentucky Derby Victory, makes his 1946 debut today against 11 other crack three-year-olds in the $10,000-added Experimental Handicap at Jamaica today.

Winner of four of his seven juvenile starts, the solidly built Reigh Count offspring has been assigned top weight of 122 pounds for the six furlong dash. Despite the heavy package, the flashy bay colt is expected to go to the post a 2-1 favorite over a field which includes five other candidates for the run for the roses.

Johnny Longden, who rode his big brother in all of his classic triumphs, will be aboard Count Speed.

Indians' Pitching Strong

Big Four Could Account for 80 Games

New York.—(NEA)—If pitching can win a pennant—and they say the Hitless Wonders did it with little else in the distant past—the Indians are as good as American League champions right now.

Cleveland trots out the finest and soundest Big Four in either wheel in Feller, Gromek, Reynolds and Embree, all right-handed.

Robert William Andrew Feller has developed a change of pace to go with his fireball and curve.

Red Embree

Steve Gromek

As in the case of Bob Feller, the ball leaves Red Embree's hand at the end of a turkey neck, or a parting twist of the wrist that gives the chucker something extra.

When big and strong Steve Gromek lets go with his three-quarter and side-arm motion the ball sails as it did for Walter Perry Johnson.

Allie Reynolds passed 130 batters last term, but the Indian also struck out 112, and has forced in only one run since late in 1942.

The lake front's Big Four are rather well backed up, too—by Harder, Black, Center, Ferick, Podgajny, Bryan, Stephens and There was nothing wrong with the left-handers, Vic Johnson and Hal Kleine.

If the Big Four turn out to be as capable as Lou Boudreau anticipates, however, the other members of the staff will spend a pleasant summer watching games from the best seats in the park.

Followers of the Indians, who have yearned for a pennant these past 26 years, flatly predict that the Big Four cannot miss winning at least 80 games.

They put Feller down for 25, maybe two or three more. Gromek and Reynolds are expected to repeat last year's performances, when they won 19 and 18, respectively. And they reckon that Embree, who returned from the service late last summer, will do as well.

Eighty games would go a long way toward clinching the flag.

In a dog-eat-dog race, such as the American League can expect this year, 96 victories would likely be more than enough.

But, as is custom, there is a fly in the Cleveland ointment.

Long on pitching but short on practically everything else, save perhaps, catching, no one has yet explained what the Indians are going to substitute for that precious commodity—runs. Even Feller cannot win without a run or two.

An outspoken young man, Feller frankly conceded this point when he scolded the front office for swapping slugger Jeff Heath to Washington for George Case.

"Case is all right", remarked the pitching wonder, "but we're going to miss Heath's heavy bat. Heath that a bit of tactful handling could not cure".

There are so many well-balanced clubs in the American League that it is difficult to vision the Indians winning on pitching alone.

Detroit, for example, has superlative pitching and something to go with it—specifically the thundering bats of Greenberg, Wakefield and Mullin.

Boston has pitching, a closely knit infield, and the always menacing bat of Ted Williams.

Allie Reynolds

Bob Feller

The Yankees are short on pitching, with only Spud Chandler as a sure thing, but could overcome that handicap with terrific batting force throughout the lineup, as well as a firm defense.

Washington boasts a smattering of balance and St. Louis, while no potential contender, is not guilty of gaping weaknesses, as is Cleveland. Chicago and Philadelphia promise not to become involved in this argument.

There is a chance that Cleveland will win it.

But if this comes to pass you can be sure of one thing—Feller Gromek, Reynolds and Embree will be four exhausted young men.

Ft. Wayne Grabs Third Pro Title in Hoop Meet Final

Chicago, April 9 — (AP) — If there's any substitute for experience, strategy and speed as exemplified by player-coach Bob McDermott of the Fort Wayne Zollners, world professional basketball champions, it didn't show itself in the world title tournament here.

The ageless McDermott, who has been around longer than even he cares to remember—14 years, to be exact—led the Zollners to their third straight world title last night, defeating the Oshkosh, Wis., All-Stars, 73 to 57, in the final game of the best two-of-three championship series.

McDermott scored 20 points during the 34 minutes he played. But that is only half the story of the victory—and veteran Bob's part in it.

The former New York Celtic star, who has a 10 year contract to coach the Zollners, employed strategy that had Oshkosh so baffled the All-Stars hardly dared move one way or the other after the first period.

After the third quarter got under way, it merely was a matter of "how badly"—not who—would win.

The Zollners held Bob Carpenter, National Basketball league scoring leader from Oshkosh, to three points, but at the same time Leroy (Cowboy) Edwards got 24 points to win scoring honors in the game.

Fort Wayne lost its first game of the title series to Oshkosh, 61-59, last Friday, but the next night defeated the All-Stars, 56-47, to run the series into last night's finale.

Senators Send Lou Bevilacqua to Farm Club at Chattanooga

Louis Bevilacqua has been sent to the Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern Association on option, according to a dispatch from the Washington training camp appearing in the Sporting News last week. The husky Dixon right-hander, along with several other Senator hopefuls, was sent to the farm club for more seasoning.

Back in baseball again after more than three years in the Army, Bevilacqua was faced with the almost impossible task of breaking into a pitching circle which lists such greats as Emil (Dutch) Leonard, Roger Wolff, Johnny Niggeling, Mickey Haefner, Sid Hudson, Walter Masterson and several others. Ranked as the most talented pitching corps in the American league, not a rookie has broken into the pitching staff this year.

In Chattanooga, Bevilacqua will be under the direction of one of minor league baseball's most colorful impressarios, Joe Engel.

Baseball Briefs

Lexington, Ky., April 9—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds and Boston Red Sox conclude their 15-game northbound series here today with a single game for the benefit of the Lexington milk fund. Nate Andrews hopes to go all the way for the Reds while Joe Dobson, Mickey Harris and Earl Johnson will share the mound duties for the American leaguers.

Evansville, Ind., April 9—(AP)—Detroit Tiger Manager Steve O'Neill today announced three changes in the world champion's previously announced lineup for opening day, April 16, at Detroit. Restored to their regular positions by virtue of impressive play during the last ten days are Second Baseman Eddie Mayo and Third Sacker Pinky Higgins, and the Tiger boss said Paul Richards would be behind the plate instead of ailing Birdie Tebbetts.

Dallas, Tex., April 9—(AP)—Righthander Johnny Beazley, whom Manager Eddie Dyer still hopes to send against the Pittsburgh Pirates in the St. Louis Cardinal's National league opener next week is being sent to St. Louis for observation and possible treatment of his stomach.

Oklahoma City, April 9—(AP)—With the exception of his pitchers, Manager Luke Sewell is giving his St. Louis Browns some steady going on the parched diamonds of the west and southwest and starters generally are in there at the finish. Shortstop Mark Christman and rookie Third Baseman Bob Dillinger, however, were given a chance to watch the game yesterday after prolonged heavy duty.

Tulsa, Okla., April 9—(AP)—Bill Dietrich will attempt to even the Chicago White Sox-Pittsburgh Pirates spring series at 13 games apiece today when he starts for the Sox against the Bucs' Al Gerheauser. Rookie Pitcher Len Perme and First Baseman Murrell Jones stole the show yesterday as the Sox downed the Pirates 4-1. Perme held the Pirates to five hits and Jones clouted a three run homer in the first time at bat since March 9 to break a 1-1 tie.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 9—(AP)—Hank Borowy of the Chicago Cubs will toss against St. Louis Brown Rookie Johnny Miller today in the 18th meeting of the two clubs this spring. The Browns hold a 10-7 margin.

Reynolds to Start Spring Diamond Practice Sunday

The Reynolds Wire baseball team will open practice sessions Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m., Manager Hi Emmert announced yesterday, and will continue Sunday workouts for approximately three weeks before going into actual competition. Emmert also issued a warning to Kay (Letty) Knauer, who is expected to be one of the leaders of West Brooklyn's club this year, and everyone else in the neighborhood, that his club will be tough this year.

Emmert revealed that Hank Henry, "Shires" Miller, and Wes Fry, of Polo, will be among those on hand for the opening drill Sunday, and said he expected a good turnout. Fry, he revealed, is planning to bring a pair of candidates from Polo for the drills. However, he extended an invitation to anyone interested to appear for the workouts.

No games have been scheduled definitely as yet, but Emmert revealed that he has several in mind, and is hopeful that the proposed formation of a league in this locality will become a reality. He pledged the full support of his club in such a case.

Fortnightly UN Meetings Urged by Its Experts

New York—(AP)—The United Nations security council would meet at least once every two weeks—even in the absence of pending business—under a set of revised rules unanimously recommended by the council's committee on experts.

The two week rule was written, the committee said in a statement accompanying the revision, to carry out the United Nations charter provision that "the security council shall be so organized as to be able to function continuously".

Other modifications related to the methods of bringing matters before the council, credentials of council members, and the manner of handling communications from private individuals and non-governmental bodies.

Provide 3 Days Notice

One of the rules provides that provisional agenda to be submitted to the council "in urgent circumstances" may be communicated to members simultaneously with a meeting.

Ordinarily Secretary General Trygve Lie is obliged to inform council members of the agenda at least three days before a meeting. Council members are expected to consider the committee's recommendations Tuesday, barring intervention by the Polish delegation to raise the question of the present regime in Spain. Chairman Quo Taichi of the security council announced when the council adjourned last Thursday that the rules would be ready for consideration and that the council delegates would have an opportunity to study them over the week end.

The Rules experts pointed out that, if adopted, the proposals would replace rules 1 through 15 of the present provisional rules. The remainder of the provisional rules would remain in force pending further examination.

"The commitee recommends that the entire body of rules should continue to be regarded as provisional in character," the report said.

Clarify Type of Meetings

One point of difference in the provisional and proposed rules related to meetings.

"The rules now in force concerning meetings are based on a distinction between three types of meetings; Regular, periodic, and extraordinary," the report said. "In the course of discussion it became apparent that no clear distinction between regular and extraordinary meetings could be drawn. The distinction is therefore abandoned in the rules attached to this report".

The rules, as proposed, provide for the regular meetings at least once every two weeks and for periodic meetings. The committee pointed out it did not express an opinion to the frequency of periodic meetings "on the grounds that only representatives on the security council are qualified to form a judgment."

Periodic meetings, as defined under article 28 of the U. N. charter, are interpreted by the secretariat to mean meetings held two or four times a year at which foreign ministers or special delegates are designated to attend rather than the permanent delegates.

Permanent Session Planned

In any case, these officials said the council is to be in more or less permanent session 12 months out of the year with meetings held at least once every two weeks.

Periodic meetings, different from regular meetings, are described by article 28, paragraph 2, as "meetings at which each of its (the security council's) members may, if it so desires, be represented by a member of the government or by some other specially designated representative."

The rule regarding the presidency was not changed. It provides that the council presidency shall be held "in turn by the members of the security council in the English alphabetical order of their names. Each president shall hold office for the calendar month."

Under this provision the Egyptian delegate will take the presidency on April 17. Instead of Mahmoud Hassan Pasha, Egyptian minister to Washington, who has been at all council sessions thus far in New York, the presidency likely will be taken over by Hafez Affify Pasha, former Egyptian minister of foreign affairs. Affiy Pasha is scheduled to leave Cairo tomorrow for New York to take his post as Egypt's delegate to the council and release Hassan Pasha to resume his duties in Washington.

A STYLISH BAND

And they pay a dividend every month. The First National bank in Palm Beach is a show place like everything else there. The tellers, all women, wear the same same color dresses but a diferent color for each day and the dresses are all tailored by one of New York's smartest dressmakers. There is a handsome patio where soft drinks are served, and the huge glass front doors of the bank are opened and closed by a "magic eye." A midwesterner, Wiley Richard Reynolds of Jackson, Mich., its president, was responsible for all this ultra-chic in banking circles.

The man in the moon isn't half as interesting as a lady in the sun.

Lions Service Club

Following a second organization meeting for a Lions club held in the Paw Paw high school auditorium on last Thursday evening, the committee went to work to secure charter members. The goal was set at a membership of twenty-five, but to date thirty-two business men and farmers have signified their interests by signing their signatures on the dotted line. There remains now to hold an organization meeting for the election of officers for the Lions Service club. The committee consisting of Harley Rosenkrans, Floyd Miller, Chester Gaines, Carl Kindelberger and John Mortimer, were very pleased by the enthusiasm and expressions of need for such an organization for our town and community.

The question arises "what can the Lions club do for Paw Paw?" The possibilities are many and are only limited by the spirit and determination of the members. A get-together dinner will be held once a month, at which time a speaker will generally be present. This association of members united together for community betterment will in itself be an inspiration. There will be several committees of members ,each one designed to study and investigate the needs of our community. After careful consideration of projects in the committees, plans will then be taken up by the board of directors to decide if projects considered are practical and feasible. Then if they are reported favorable, the projects are submitted to the club for action.

Among the projects suggested to the charter membership committee while in the course of their work, were (1) a cement road connecting Paw Paw to route 51, extending east, (2) possibility of securing some small factory to Paw Paw, (3) more recreation facilities for the young people.

With a service organization, our community will have a great persuader to get the ear of the public officials in listening to the needs of our town. It will constitute an organized unit to secure things we need here which we could not get except through such an organized movement.

The Lions club will not be a closed organization after it is started. As other business men and farmers see it in operation they may apply for membership. Nothing less than 100 per cent membership of those interested in our community will be its goal. Don't feel slighted if you were not approached as a charter member. All Lions are on an equal basis after they enter the club whether it be as charter members or added after the club is functioning. The recommendation for our community was 25 interested and active members to start. We couldn't stop at 25 because too many were vitally and actively interested. This service club will be of great benefit to the town's welfare and we will do our best to keep you informed of its activities.

School News

The Paw Paw high school baseball team has completed its 1946 schedule of games. Arrangements are trying to be made with Waterman for games, but as yet nothing definite has been worked out. The Ag boys under the supervision of Clifford Harvey and William Grove are going to rebuild the backstop. This is a very much needed improvement as the present one is in very bad condition. The order for a dozen baseball suits was cancelled by the company because of lack of the necessary materials. It had been hoped that it would be possible to purchase these suits in time for the season. All of us are looking forward to the season and the following games have been scheduled for the coming season:

Wednesday, April 17—Earlville, there.

Monday, April 22—Hinckley, there.

Monday, April 29—Shabbona, here.

Saturday, May 10—Earlville, here.

Saturday, May 17—Hinckley, here.

Tuesday, May 20—Shabbona, there.

The junior class play will be held Friday, April 12, and they have selected "Hullabaloo" for their performance. Tickets for the play are now on sale at the Paw Paw Pharmacy and admission prices are 50 cents for reserved seats, 40 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. There will be a matinee performance for grade school pupils and for children under school age on Thursday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock at the high school. The admission price for the matinee will be only 15 cents, and adults who wish to attend this performance may do so, but there will be no reduction of admission prices.

News of the Fire Truck

The committee appointed to solicit funds for the fire truck, have been busy for the last three weeks and now report that there has been enough money raised so that we are assured of having a truck. To date, there is a little over $5,600 in the bank with some more still to come in.

The response of the people in putting this over, as a whole, has been wonderful, with most of them giving what they thought was their fair share of the amount needed and everyone, both in town and the surrounding community realize the great need of a fire truck. A few hundred dollars are still needed, we hope to get it this week, and should anyone who desires to give something and has not been contacted, please leave your money at the bank .

As soon as the amount needed is raised, a committee will be appointed to purchase a truck and needed equipment. The committee wants to take this opportunity to thank one and all for the wonderful support you have given us, and assure you that your generous response is really appreciated.

Girl Scouts Meet

Miss Dorothy Carter entertained the Girl Scouts at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carter on Monday evening for their regular meeting and a good number were in attendance. The usual business meeting was held with Miss Marian Dickie in charge and the girls were glad to have their Scout leader, Mrs. Ernest Carder with them. Tenderfoot Scout pins were awarded at this time and those girls receiving their pins were: Lois McCord, Audrey Thompson, Marcell Luce and Dorothy Carter. After all of the business had been taken care of, an old-fashioned spell down was held, conducted by their leader, and everyone participated in this real contest. Several games were then played and during the social hour the hostess, assisted by Lois McCord and Virginia Eich served delicious refreshments. Miss Virginia Eich was the special guest and the girls are looking forward to their next meeting which will be held at the home of their leader, Mrs. Carder on April 15.

Card Party

Mrs. Blanche Roberts was hostess to a card party held at her home Saturday evening with many friends present. The evening was spent playing progressive "500" and there were four tables in play. After all of the individual scores were added, Mrs. Arthur Harper was determined the winner for the ladies and Mrs. Oakley Durr received the consolation prize. For the men Olie Haug won top honors and Lewis Risetter finished with the low score. The remainder of the evening was spent socially and the hostess served dainty refreshments to round out a pleasant evening for all.
